

Those who dedicate their lives to educate our kids deserve the unbiased tools to make good financial decisions

National Financial Educational Consultant is giving away an Online Financial Wellness Course to all Public & Private School Educators

Randy Hammon, a financial author, radio host and 38-year veteran in the financial services industry, recently created The Online Guide to Financial Clarity. Randy is the Educational Consultant for the American Financial Education Alliance (AFEA). AFEA is an IRS approved 501(c) 3 non-profit organization, and one of the largest providers of free financial literacy to corporations, unions and government agencies in the United States.

According to Randy, "Our kid's educators deserve and need unbiased, comprehensive tools to navigate life's toughest financial decisions. There is an overload of information out there, but people don't know what or who to trust to give them the answers to their financial questions. This course does just that!"

He continues, "Because there is currently a lack of federal and state funding available for financial wellness, we are giving the course away to All Public and Private School Educators, who for generations have dedicated their lives to serving our families and preparing our kids to lead productive lives."

The distribution to our American Educators will be done through their various national and state teacher associations, and through the public spreading the word by social media. The link to sign up for the course is provided below.

So, what makes this course so different?

"This course is a solution to a national crisis of financial illiteracy. And to the question: "why aren't we taught this financial education at our high schools, universities and companies."

It's Convenient. It's Practical. It's Relevant. And most importantly... It's Unbiased! RADM Warren Aut (USN-Ret)

"I have trusted my retirement planning to Randy Hammon for 30 years. His straight forward solutions to the financial and emotional needs of educators have been a blessing to our family. He has done an amazing job of summarizing his Safe Money System and also his successful philosophy of life. I highly recommend that you enjoy and practice the wisdom that he teaches."

Gene Bedley, National PTA educator of the Year, retired Principal, Educational Consultant, & Author

What the research shows about the need for unbiased financial literacy?

"Researchers and experts say most Financial Literacy should be renamed 'Financial Illiteracy'. Why isn't financial literacy education working? Because financial literacy education is largely funded by the very same businesses that prosper when people make poor money decisions — big banks, credit card companies, and other huge financial industry businesses. It should be called financial illiteracy!"

Ralph Nader, April 2015

"None of the financial industry's tools teach skepticism in financial transactions. None impart the critical need for caution in dealing with any situation that impacts a person's financial or personal well-being."

Walter Cronkite Project's Foolproof Foundation, 2015
